Biodiversity

La Diversidad Biológica

2010 has been declared the International Year of Biodiversity by the United Nations. It is a celebration of life on earth and the value of biodiversity. Scientists have been learning about the diversity of living things for hundreds of years. As they learn more their appreciation for life and its diversity grows. We are diverse. No two of us are the same. Couldn't we be our own scientists and learn more about the people we work with, cultures we've never interacted with, or even someone we've known for years? If scientists value life more by studying its differences, We might start to respect and cherish each human life more as we learn about our own differences and the similarities that bind us.
